Education is a 'good buy'

(CPS)—Mary, about to start her first year of law school at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, says she'll have to "take it step by step. I can't make it through three years without (financial) aid."

If she can't get enough aid, Mary (not her real name) will "either drop out of school, or wait to go, or just forget about it."

Mary's not alone. Like millions of undergraduate and graduate students this fall, she's feeling the first effects of President Reagan's cuts in federal student aid programs.

Financial aid officials around the country seem to agree that while this year's cuts will hurt students to maybe delay enrolling" while they hold a job, and "will most likely cause a shift in enrollment patterns from more expensive private schools to public colleges," he adds.

Indeed, some are predicting a rapid disappearance of all but the strongest private colleges. To meet higher tuitions, a greater percentage of private college students uses federal aid money, according to a February, 1981 study by the National Center on Educational Statistics.

So, "when the axe falls, it might be the end of many small, private colleges," speculates Carol Skribel, aid administrator at private Case Western Reserve but can we afford it?

"We expect a large number of students will be affected," says George Brooks, aid director at the University of Missouri-Columbia. "We don't know how many yet. We're certainly not going to be able to fund every student who needs it, which has been our commitment since the mid-sixties."

At Texas, "we don't know how it will translate into the number of students lost to the institution," says Michael Novak, the university's aid director. student's experience will be affected," he predicts.

The immediate impact will probably be on the poorest students, officials say.

David K. Smith, Vanderbilt's student air director, worries about "a return to the old days when Vanderbilt was known as a rich man's school."

He worries the school might eventually be forced to admit students "in the bottom five percent of our applicant pool" according not to their academic abilities, but to their ability to pay their own way without aid.

"That would be destroying what we've always worked for—a diverse student body with a good sprinkling of minority students and lower-income students," Smith mourns.

Missouri "hasn't discussed going back to ability-to-pay (admissions) yet," Brooks says, "but I can see it coming up. Everything's going down the drain on this thing."

Confusion over congressional intent and an administration delay in processing aid applications last spring have caused the most trouble for this fall's students, aid directors say.

Most of the changes in aid awards went into effect yesterday, but aid administrators didn't know that until well past June, when most aid "packages" are usually completed and announced.

Vanderbilt's Smith complains of trying to arrange aid for students in the face of "confusion and conflicting directives" during the summer.

Two weeks before school started, "we still do not have an official notification of a payment schedule" on which to compute awards.

Brooks tried to reach his students well before the new August 23rd deadline for Guaranteed Student Loans (GSLs), but doesn't know how successful he was.

"You're going to see some terrible anxiety (among students this fall)," Martin suggests. Many "students just aren't aware of the changes."

There are other immediate effects, "many of them invisible for now," Martin says. He recalls talking to a textbook publisher who complained that bookstore managers, unsure of what to expect, are "ordering books conservatively" until they can more accurately gauge demand.

Other observers foresee temporary lapses in services like campus food operations, whose directors may have withheld ordering for the school year until they saw how many students had to drop out because of an inability to pay.

Smith estimates that 175 of the 500 students in Vanderbilt's nursing school would have had to drop out if "we hadn't made it up with about $100,000 in institutional funds."

But "I don't know what we're going to do next year" if Congress doesn't re-fund a nursing loan and their aid programs, Smith says.

A change of heart is unlikely. Most Washingtonians promise even deeper cuts next year.

"Anyone who believes that Stockman is content with this year's cuts in (Guaranteed Student Loans) is as loony as David Stockman himself," says Jerry Roschwald of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

However, despite the reports from around the country, Mr. Everette Holmes, Trevecca's Financial Aid officer, feels that TNC has been spared some of the hardships that other schools are going through. According to Holmes, most students have been able to secure enough financial support to return to school this year. He uses Trevecca's record enrollment as a basis for that.

Responding to reports that next year will be even worse, Mr. Holmes stated that that will depend on Congress. He emphasized that Congress, in the midst of their budget cutting, may find out that this year's cuts were not enough. Thus, they may take more money away from certain financial aid programs.

Mr. Holmes also stressed that the National Direct Student Loan program is facing extinction. Because of the high default rate on these loans, the Federal government is planning to phase out the program before the decade is over. Colleges are also being threatened with the possibility of losing use of the monies generated by the DDSL program, according to Holmes. The problem goes back to the high default rate. At a national meeting last summer, Financial Aid offices from across the Country were told that unless the national default rate is brought below ten percent, something will have to be done. The national rate is presently at about 17%, while Trevecca's stands at three percent.

Even though these prospects are scaring a lot of college administrators, and students, Mr. Holmes believes that Congress will realize that education is a "good buy." According to Holmes, with the increased spending in defense, the government will need educated people to man the modernized equipment. However, Mr. Holmes stressed that the best way to convince Congress to lighten the load on students and their families, is to write them. Mr. Holmes reported that at their meeting last summer, most Congressmen acknowledged that they can be influenced by letters from their constituents. Thus, Mr. Holmes is urging students and parents to write their Congressmen—before it gets worse.

"Anyone who believes that Stockman is content with this year's cuts in (Guaranteed Student Loans) is as loony as David Stockman himself," Jerry Roschwald, National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

students, the worst effects are probably a year away.

"The full impact of the changes won't start to be felt until next spring and summer," predicts Dallas Martin, executive director of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators.

Former U.S. Secretary of Education Shirley Hufstader confirms they'll "hit in full and evil flower next year." The impact then will be "shattering."

The relative scarcity of federal student aid "will literally foreclose the opportunity to go to school" for some students, Martin says.

For others, the cuts "will cause

University in Cleveland. "We depend on strong financial aid to attract students."

Traditionally-black colleges, where it's not unusual to find 100 percent of the student body using some sort of federal aid, are also expected to be hit especially hard by the cuts.

Most public college aid officials were reluctant to predict just how many of their students won't be able to re-enroll because of the cuts. One—Jerome Sullivan of Iowa State—at one point speculated ISU could lose 20 percent of its students, but that they could be replaced by transfers from private colleges.

Fall Revival sweeps campus

Trevecca's long awaited Fall Revival opened on campus this week and ran through this morning. The featured speaker was Rev. Stephen Manley, of Marion, Indiana, with Lane and Janet Lowman serving as musicians.

After seven years in the pastorate, Manley entered into full-time evangelism. In May of 1981 he received his Doctor of Ministry degree from Luther Rice Seminary. Manley believes that unless the local church is revived, the evangelization of the world will never be accomplished.

Chaplain Dunnington is quoted as saying "I feel Reverend Manley preaches with a fresh sense of enthusiasm. He has a biblical message with a real emphasis on the scripture, for Christ and the Church."

Evangelist-Singers featured at the Revival were Lane and Janet Loman. They reside in Nashville where they pastor the Calvary Church of the Nazarene. They have previously been engaged full-time in the field of evangelism. The Lomans have also pastored in the states of North Carolina and Georgia for seven years.

The dual ministry of preaching and singing has been enjoyed by churches of many denominations. Lane and Janet have been involved in camp meetings, retreats, evangelistic crusades, church and youth revivals across the country since entering this ministry in 1971. Their unique way of presenting the gospel in song and in word has been appreciated by young and old alike.

Rev. Loman is a graduate of Atlanta Christian College, where he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Christian Education. He also attended John Wesley College, in Greensboro, North Carolina, and Oglethorpe College, Atlanta, Georgia.

Hundreds of students became involved in the revival through the "Revival Support Corps." We sincerely hope that everyone who became involved in the revival obtained the spiritual growth, desired through the ministry of the Holy Spirit.

Music Department seeking accreditation

by Janie Martin

Julius Erlenback from Drake University, and Donald Bailey from Houghton College visited the campus this week in order to verify a self survey report submitted by the music department this past summer.

The National Association of Schools of Music is an agency for accrediting music departments in universities and colleges. The agency has three main purposes: to advance the cause of music in American life and especially in higher education; to establish and maintain minimum standards for the education of musicians, while encouraging both diversity and excellence; and to provide a national forum for the discussion of issues related to those purposes.

Accreditation is granted when the association acknowledges the institution as having complied with standards set up which stress "educational quality and institutional probity."

The only Nazarene college that holds membership in the NASM, Trevecca is an associate member. This membership was acquired within a two year period after submitting a self survey report and meeting standards and requirements of the association. The music department is now eligible for full membership in NASM. Five years after an associate membership is acquired members are eligible for full membership.

Trevecca has three music programs in which students may receive a B.S. degree. The programs are Music, Church Music, and Music Education.

The self-survey report on these areas included the program offered and their objectives, operational standards, general standards for graduation curricula and enrollment, instructional programs and procedures, and music in general education.

Fred Mund, Chairman of the music department, says he is very confident and will receive results from the visit late in November.

Also this week there was an NASM honors concert. Those performing were Tamela Tarte, soprano; David Jones, baritone; Kevin Poe, trombonist; Todd Webb, pianist; Dawn Douglas, soprano; Phil Ketchum, trumpeter; Jill Fullerton, soprano; Mark Hodge, tenor; George Hogan, bass-baritone; Russ McCorble, pianist; Rhonda Chandler, soprano and Sheryl Pearson, soprano.

students 'monopolized' and 'scrabbled'

(CPS)—Even in an age of sophisticated electronic games, Monopoly and Scrabble are still the best-selling diversions offered in college stores, according to a survey of student buying habits by the College Marketing & Research Corp. and Monroe Mendelsohn Research, Inc..

The study found the old standbys still sell better than other hot items like stuffed animals, electronic games, and puzzles, though Dungeons and Dragons sets and their imitators are getting into the same league as Monopoly and Scrabble.

Backgammon is also among the most popular board games at the bookstores.

But out of the brand-name games mentioned by students in the survey, 46 percent owned Monopoly, while 30 percent owned a Scrabble game.

Of the electronic games, hand-held models that simulate sports are the best sellers.

Reagan asks Carter for help?

ATLANTA—Former President Jimmy Carter refused earlier this week to comment on a report that President Reagan asked him to help convince the Senate to approve the sale of AWAC radar planes to Saudi Arabia. Carter said, instead that he would wait until the proposal was sent to the Congress before making any comment.

Carter also stated that "there is no doubt in my mind that this administration is making very serious mistakes. I haven't had to comment on them because they've been obvious to the American people. It's obvious that you can't cut taxes $750 billion—primarily to benefit the rich over the next five years—and double defense expenditures and not have enormous deficits." Carter said. "It's just simple arithmetic."

Reagan for Shah

(CPS)—Berkeley, California—which spawned the "Reagan for Shah" campaign committee during the 1980 presidential campaign—has become home to a new vehicle for student participation in the electoral process: a "Bani-Sadr in '84" committee.

The committee, according to Zodiac New Service, hopes to draft the former Iranian president to run against Ronald Reagan in 1984. It plans to have Bani-Sadr become a U.S. citizen, change his name to "Abner Sadler," and then "help us forget Peter Sellers" by campaigning across the country.

For a slogan, the committee suggests "He knows Us. He's Seen Us At Our Worst, And Then Some."

Elections to be settled next week

On Monday, September 28, the Trevecca Student Government Association discussed the matter of Freshman elections, and decided to rehold the speeches and elections, on a limited basis, Monday, October 5. Certain speeches will be given in class chapel on Monday, with the polls opening immediately afterward. Polls will remain open until 6:00 p.m., and results are expected to be announced around 8:00 p.m.

Trevecca's new Academic Enrichment Program (AEP) has become the primary cause of the recent election mix-up. After petitions closed on Friday, September 18, the candidates met with the Administrative Council on Monday. At this meeting, several of the candidates who were in the AEP program were told they were ineligible to run for office. The administrative Council made this decision based upon the interpretation that AEP is the equivalent to academic probation. The constitution of the Associated Student Body does not allow anyone on academic probation to run for office. Thus, several candidates were forced to withdraw.

Campaigning began on Monday and speeches were held, as scheduled on Thursday, September 24, followed by the election. This resulted in a run-off in each race, except Treasurer, in which Laurie McCullom was elected.

However, Thursday evening it was learned that two candidates in the run-offs were on AEP, making them ineligible, according to the Administrative Council. Thus, run-offs were postponed on Friday, several meetings between ASB President Dwight Gunter and administrators were held over the weekend, and an emergency meeting of the Administrative Council was held on Monday, September 28.

In this meeting, the Council reversed its earlier decision, and ruled that AEP is not the same thing as academic probation, meaning that those eliminated in the first week were actually eligible to run. This led to the decision at the SGA meeting last Monday.

The SGA decided, after much discussion by members and Freshman spectators alike, that speeches and elections will be held on Monday, October 5. However, only those races in which a candidate was disqualified because of AEP would go through the whole process. Those which the AEP issue did not affect, will continue as planned.

This means that Laurie McCullom stands elected as Freshmen treasurer because no one was disqualified from that race because of AEP. There was also no disqualification on that basis in the Vice-President's or Secretary's races. Thus, those in the run-off will remain and the election will continue from there.

The Chaplain's race did include two persons in AEP. However, since both of the persons were on the ballot, those in the run-off will remain so, with the election on Monday.

The only two races affected by AEP, President and SGA

Representative, will continue from the point at which petitions closed at 4:00 p.m. on Friday, September 18. That means all of those who had originally wanted to run, and had their petition in are eligible, as long as they did not drop out or were not disqualified because of anything other than AEP. Thus, all candidates for President and Representative will give their speeches on Monday.

Therefore, the race stands as follows: candidates for President are Alan Foster, Scott Adkins, David Wilson, Don Delgado, Steve Wood, Tim Foster, Claude Perhealth and Danny Carter. In the Vice-President race the run-off will continue between Paul David Frank and Rondi McBrayer.

Alumni stage first phon-a-thon

"Hello, I'm an alumnus of Trevecca Nazarene College. Do you have a moment to speak with me?" Many alumni of TNC will be receiving a call similar to this during the 1st Annual Loyalty Fund Drive Phon-a-thon.

The Office of Development and the Alumni Association are sponsoring a Phon-a-thon, September 21 thru October 10 to raise funds for Trevecca. Dr. Melvin Welch, Executive Secretary of the Trevecca Alumni Association and coordinators Joy Tharton and Mary Helen Lane, plan to contact approximately 5,000 Trevecca alumni and encourage them to support the college by donating money. Over three hundred Trevecca alumni and friends have volunteered their free time to call. Phon-a-thon headquarters is located in the basement of the Physical Education building in room 08C.

This year is the first for the Phon-a-thon with the idea to make it an annual fall event. The Phon-a-thon is geared to create an interest in the alumni of Trevecca to help the college that they were, and still can be, so much a part of.

The goal set by the Alumni Association is $50,000 and the money will be labeled as unrestricted funds. Several projects could be aided by this money, such as a new Student Center and/or an endowment fund.

When asked about his feelings concerning the Phon-a-thon and the turn-out of volunteers, Dr. Welch said "The large number of alumni that volunteered their must show the students of TNC today that they still have strong loyal commitment to Trevecca."

1981-82 cheerleading squad chosen

The 1981-82 cheerleading tryouts were held on Thursday, September 17, in the College Hill Annex. Twenty-one students gathered to cheer their way on to the Trojan cheerleading squad. From start to finish, shouts of school spirit filled the room. As the final group left the stage, ballots were passed out to the onlooking students.

At 9:00 that same evening, the results were posted in the gym. The following students were chosen to be on the 1981-82 Trojan cheerleading squad: Cyrisse Bianco, Warner Robins, GA; Juanita Hawk, W. Palm Beach, FL; Melody Nabors, Memphis, TN; Denise Ritter, Old Hickory, TN;

Robin Smith, Nashville, TN; Susan Strickland, Brentwood, TN; Tammy Tanner, Aiken, SC; David Tucker, Nashville, TN; Robin Watson, Dothan, AL; Christopher Taylor, Pleasant Garden, NC; Tammy Weaver, Rockledge, FL; and Raul Quesada, Miami, FL.

To prepare for Homecoming, the cheerleading squad has started their long, hard practices. Although inexperienced with only five returning from last year, the squad is working toward a successful season. Supporting the basketball games by participating in cheers will encourage our cheerleading squad and basketball team to another victorious year.

The Community

"Welcome to the Trevecca community!" These are probably the most used words in the welcoming addresses of all the administrators and faculty. As returning students get reacquainted and new students make the changing adjustments the emphasis is to sincerely welcome each other. Indeed it should be so, for many of our number need a warm welcome to ease the pain of transition from security and stability to personal and corporate responsibility. However, the often overlooked, but probably most important, word in that phrase is community. By choice we have to some degree isolated ourselves from the rest of society and are left to develop our own mini-society. Also, it is by our own choice whether we will remain a conglomeration of individuals or develop into a community.

As a developing community we share many of the same interests and concerns. Accordingly, we are drawn to those within our own community with whom we have the most in common. The one distinctive difference between our community and any other is that we have taken on the awesome responsibility of calling ourselves a Christian community.

A Christian community not only shares similar interests and concerns, but must also embody the very essence and character of Christ and the church as He intended it to be. With the advent of spiritual revival in our community let us each consider it our own personal responsibility to preserve the community of Trevecca, a community that thrives on and strives for Christlikeness.

letters to the editor

Editor:

Occasionally, with all the excitement and plans that go along with undertaking a new project, one has to stop and think of the projected outcome. Such areas as:

1. Will the project be relative to the needs of this community?

2. Will it be considerate of the individuals directly or indirectly who are financially supportive of it?

3. Are we considering the feedback that is so vital for individual or corporate success?

At this time, when Trevecca is moving into the new area of childhood education (Kinderhaus), it is my sincere hope that its governing body will conscientiously consider the areas listed above.

The financial burdens of teachers and students who attend and support Trevecca, and have children attending the college supported day care center, should not be overlooked.

I submit to you, that a small tuitional discount at the day care center could only enhance a positive environment of cooperation between the day care and its major supporters: the teachers and students of this college.

This gesture would not only be one of courtesy, but one of dignity, in recognition of those, who, by their financial support, are making Trevecca Nazarene College a truly great institution.

Editor's point

Isolation, it usually brings to mind a small island in the middle of the ocean, or someone who is exiled in Siberia. However, it can also describe the experience of many college students, especially those of a small, private college. They will enter this small, close-knit, academic community and leave all the problems and concerns of the world on the "outside." The idea behind this seems to be that, for collegians, the affairs of the world are unimportant. They have their own little "social structure," so why be concerned about what is going on "out there." Thus, for four years, these students will participate in classes and activities, and learn about truth and theories, only to leave after graduation, and enter a world that did not wait for them.

This is a sad, and unneeded, occurrence, but it is even worse when Christian students allow themselves to be caught up in it. Jesus Christ, in praying to his Father, asked that His disciples not be taken out of the world, just kept from evil. This same principle applies today. Jesus showed, by example, that the place of the Christian is in service. Yet, how effective can a Christian, who has very little knowledge of what is happening in the world, really be?

Today's world is rapidly changing. However, those changes are recorded in newspapers, magazines, and news programs, making it possible to keep up with the rest of the world. Students—even Christian students—do not have to go through school under a "security blanket," and then spend the rest of their lives trying to catch up. The information is there, and they can be productive, and informed citizens now.

The race for Secretary will also continue with a run-off between Stephanie Lawson and Kathy Lewis, as will the Chaplain's race between Julie Smith and Melanie Clark. The SGA Representative candidates will also give speeches again. Those candidates are Tamara Harris, Megan Spruill, Robin Osborne, Joe Stone, Melissa McCleod, Gregg Tulowitz, David Daily, Susan Calhoun, Warren Crawford and Angela Winkle. (This is the way the race stood when we went to press—Some candidates may, however, have dropped out by now.

The special election for Vice-President of Spiritual Life has been a silent victim of this mix-up. In the election on September 24, no one received a majority of the vote. Therefore, those two receiving the highest vote, Lloyd Brock and Brent Poe, were to face each other in the run-off, which was held last Tuesday. The winner of that race is Lloyd Brock.

Editor's Note: Because of publication deadlines Trev-echoes is unable to print the numerical results and any other information on the Spiritual Life Vice-President race. However, the next issue, in two weeks, will contain these, plus the results of the Freshmen elections, pictures and profiles of the winners.

Morning Star

It peeks over the horizon, like a searchlight
Beaming its rays ovr the darkness;
Then rapidly rising, it causes other stars to dim.
It climbs the sky, heralding the rising sun,
And can still be seen, halfway up, as night gives way to day.

Working alone at night, I take a few minutes to enjoy this spectacle, Remembering the Son who is called the "Bright and Morning Star."
I gain a sense of inner peace, and new courage
To deal with rather difficult times.
I am reminded anew that "This is the Day the Lord has made;"
And I rejoice.

fullness

His name was Jeff and he had fallen flat on his face. yet, as one of his friends came around to help him, he muttered, "Don't worry, I can get up."

Jeff had been a victim of cerebral palsy from birth and now the twelve year old insisted on getting up by himself no matter how many times he fell. He was amazing. For instance, on one windy day he was leaving the cafeteria and got caught in a brisk wind. It looked assuredly as if he would fall to his knees. But not Jeff. He would calmly brace himself, stand still, and let the wind go by.

How exciting and inspiring that is! Just think how radiant each of our Christian lives could be if we would pick ourselves up with that same determination when the world or Satan deals us a blow. When days get hectic, or things don't go your way, do you fight back, get upset or even take a negative attitude? Why not stand still, let the storm pass you by and then forge ahead. As Christians we should be able to lean upon God as the so-called storms go by.

That is fullness. Being able to live out that triumphant Christian life which we so hunger for. God will help us, individually and as a community, to have this full life regardless of the circumstances. So the next time something threatens to knock you down remember Jeff and insist with a sincere calmness and faith, "Don't worry, I CAN get up."

Now, as you read this column, we are in the midst of our Fall revival and I'm believing God for a real outpouring of his spirit. Keep praying and believing as we seek the fullness of His blessing day by day.

Circle K presents variety show

Once again, the Trevecca Circle K Club will be sponsoring their annual Variety Show. The show will take place on Thursday, October 8, in the Old College Hill Annex. It will begin at 8:00 p.m. and will assume the format of "The Tonight Show," as has been tradition for the past two years.

Don Garrison will emcee the evening's festivities as "Donnie" Garrison along with Finley Knowles. Also, the Tonight Show Band under the direction of "Doc" Ron Jones will be back once again for their musical shenanigans and expertise.

Steve Pennington, who received a standing ovation last year, will be back with his magic, humor, and puppets. Other returning acts will be Kenny D. Westeburger and his pal Archie. Todd Adams will be doing more impersonations, and Ron "Kung Fu" Blankenship will demonstrate his karate skills. Don Garrison will be performing mystic mental wizardry as "Nosirrag the Magnificent" (pronounced Nos-i-rag).

Both pizza and drinks will be sold and the proceeds of the night will go towards the Circle K ongoing project with Tennessee Preparatory School (TPS).

Since V.I.P.ers will be attending the Variety Show as part of their program, others are urged to arrive early for a good seat.

Retreat coming up

The Fall Retreat will be here soon! It will be held at the Tennessee District campgrounds October 9-11. The activities begin Friday at 4:00 p.m. and will conclude after lunch on Sunday. Sign-ups will begin in the cafeteria this week. Costs for the whole weekend are just $10 or $9 with your supersaver. The speaker, J. David Garrison, comes from the colonial capitol of the world—Williamsburg, Virginia. Another special guest will be the dynamic Lillie Knauls who will hold a concert Friday night. There will also be a film, "The Pink Panther," which will be shown Saturday night. Many special and exciting events have been planned for your enjoyment, fellowship, and spiritual uplifting. Don't miss this fall's retreat!

Welcome Carol Sue

Carol Sue Nix, a 1978 graduate of Trevecca, has returned to become the Resident Counselor of Johnson Dorm. Carol Sue is from Tuscaloosa, Alabama. She said that she has noticed several changes since her college day—all for the better—especially in the spiritual atmosphere. Carol Sue is excited about her new job, which includes working in the bookstore, as well as guiding the Johnson ladies.

VIP'ers coming soon

Trevecca's annual V.I.P. days are fast approaching! The dates are October 7-9 for the Alabama, Central and South Florida, Kentucky, and Mississippi districts, and October 22-24 for the Georgia, East Tennessee, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, and North Florida Districts. Approximately three hundred high school juniors and seniors are expected to attend these two action packed weekends.

Among the activities planned are a concert by the various college groups, a "build your own sundae" party, a presentation from the Administration to the V.I.P.ers entitled "This is Trevecca," class attendance by the V.I.P.ers, departmental displays, and a special banquet. The first group will see a variety show presented by Circle K, while the second group will see D. Paul Thomas' portrayal of the life of Dr. Phineas F. Bresee.

Dony McGuire—Inspiration — Light Records —

Remember the Downings? A decade ago, Dony McGuire, Paul Downing and their wives were part of a popular gospel singing group. In 1977, Dony McGuire left the group to form "McGuire," which created a whole new contemporary sound in Christian music. They lasted through one album with the Benson Company.

After the McGuire venture, he continued composing numerous gospel songs with Reba, and the Gaithers. He also produced albums for the Gaither trio and Reba, and arranged/produced a choral album called "Heaven Connection."

Now, we have Dony McGuire—writer/singer—in his explosive debut album as a soloist. He has a new sound, new wife and songs that will be an inspiration to you. Songs include You Make Me Happy, With My Song, It's My Desire, and a new tune, Stop This Healin' Water, which is surely destined to make history. Get it today!

TIA begins volleyball action

by Christine El Saieh

This is the beginning of a new school year and the beginning of T.I.A. volleyball. What is TIA sports, you might be wondering. It is Trevecca Intramural Association which is when all the societies play each other in sports. This gives everyone who likes to play sports who might not be good enough to make the regular teams a chance to play. The societies are Alpha, Beta, Delta and Gamma. TIA volleyball is played every Tuesday night except the 29th of September because of Revival. The ladies play at seven followed by coed at 7:45 and then guys.

The first games were held on the 15th of September. Every society won at least one match of volleyball. Beta and Delta played each other in ladies, coeds and mens. Beta won the ladies 16-14; 11-5 while Delta won both guys and coed by 12-15; 15-3; 15-5, 15-8; 15-2 respectively. The other games saw Alpha beat Gamma in ladies and coed while Gamma won the guys.

On September 22, there was another TIA volleyball night. Delta won all three of its games against Alpha making them undefeated in coed and guys. The ladies scores were 16-14; 7-15; 11-15. The Gamma ladies on by forfeit to Beta. A Delta player, Pamela Lightfoot, said that it was great to win and the volleyball gave her something to do on Tuesday. the scores for the coed went like this: Beta beat Gamma, 15-8; 15-6. Delta over Alpha, 15-8; 15-7. The men's games were won by Gamma which put them undefeated and Delta. The Gamma scores were 15-13; 14-16; 15-10. Delta's were 15-2; 15-7. When asked about their victory Gamma's Phil Visser said "Great experience and I loved the thrill of victory and I had a good jam and was good in the clutch. Beta put forth good sportsmanship and fierce competition"

I urge you to come and support your society on Tuesday nights.

Ladies Begin Volleyball Season

The Volleyball season for 1981-1982 has already started. The girls played in a tournament down in Lambuth where they lost all six matches. Even after this Sophomore Ann Driggers feels that they can win lots of games and overall have a good season and an exciting year. They placed another game Tuesday.

The team for 1981-82 is Pam DeMatteo, Ann driggers, karen Green, Ann McLeay, Mary Ann Schilling, Jill Shortinghouse, Kim Skelnik, Brenda Steen and Gabrina Williams. The manager is Trish Becknell, a sophomore and the coach, a former student of Trevecca is Carol Earnest.
