District Caravans Are Scheduled

Caravans which have been scheduled to date are: Florida, April 4-6; South Carolina, April 6 and 7; East Tennessee, April 21; West Virginia, April 25-27; East Kentucky, May 4-5.

Annual Trev-O-Cades of young people (high school juniors and seniors) from the districts on Trevecca's zone visit the campus in order to become better acquainted with Trevecca.

All-School Project To Purchase New Music Equipment

The All-School project is under way! It is in the capable hands of Denny Hage, treasurer of the Student Council and Junior Class representative, and a committee of class and club treasurers.

It is also in the hands of the dues-paying students who belong to the classes and clubs. The goal is new stereophonic music and listening equipment for the new library. It will be available to all students and faculty members.

Thirteen big thermometers, each representing a class or a club, stand in the lobby of the McClurkan building. Watch the temperatures rise in the next few days and weeks as the money comes in.

Students Present Fine Arts Recital

Students of music and speech at Trevecca presented a Fine Arts Recital March 10 in the Fine Arts auditorium.

A Cappella Choir Completes Tour

The A Cappella Choir, conducted by Professor Ramon Unruh and accompanied by Miss Barbara McClain, recently returned from its 1961 tour of the Southeastern Zone.

Touring with the choir were Rev. Clifford E. Keys, Sr., Trevecca's field representative, and Mrs. Keys.

The choir program this year featured many variations, not only in singing, but in instrumental numbers. The program opened with a prelude by Ed Allred on the piano and Betty Harrison at the organ.

In the first group of songs were included "Built on a Rock," with Douglas Askew as bass soloist; "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling," "Were You There," with Lois Conkey, soprano soloist; "Go To Dark Gethsemane," and "Hallelujah" (from Mount of Olives) — the last three songs are in relation to the approaching Easter season.

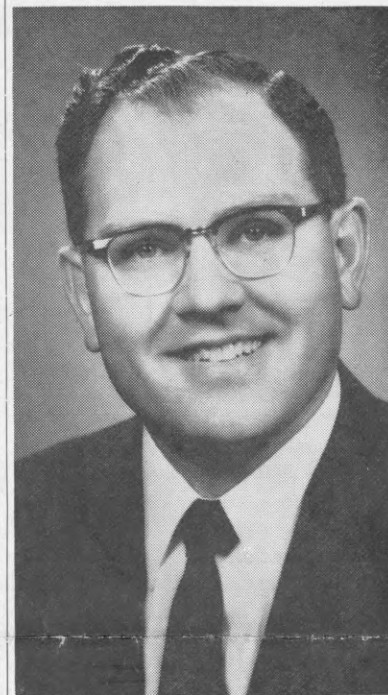

The second group included many favorite songs of the choir, including "Ivory Palaces," "Jesus Saves," "Submission," with Jeanette Beel, soprano soloist, and Jerry Appleby, baritone soloist; "I Know I'm Saved," and "He Will Not Fail Me Now."

During the offertory, Jerry Appleby and James Van Hook were featured in a trombone and trumpet duet.

The last group of numbers presented some of the spiritual type—"So's I Can Write My Name," "Jacob's Ladder," "When I Can Read My Title Clear," Joe Moses, bass soloist; and "Pentecostal Fire Is Falling." The program closed with the choir singing the benediction—"The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

On its 1961 tour the A Cappella

Easter

"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept." I Cor. 15:20.

Job asked the question which comes to everyone when he said, "If a man die shall he live again?" No intelligent human being lives without an interest in what will happen in the future. Almost everything stands or falls under the time test. Satan's promises are usually for the short period of time. He promises fun, pleasure, and even wealth; none of which last very long. The millionaire can not take his money with him. The rich and the poor are alike at the end of a brief lifetime. One of our poets has said that all of us will, sooner or later, have the same amount of real estate—six feet of sod.

An English professor in a college classroom came from his mother's funeral and apologized to the class for his previous expressions of doubt and skepticism. He wept before his class, saying that as he looked at his mother in the casket he had said to himself, "If this is the last of my mother, it is the saddest thought I have ever had."

The usual business-like question is, how long will it last? So it is with life. How long will it last—how long will the joys of life last? Eternity is the time test. We have faith in an afterlife—eternal life. Eastertime is the time to strengthen that faith. The Easter message, the Easter songs, the Easter springtime add to our faith in the resurrection of the dead. The fact that Jesus rose triumphant over death, hell and the grave lifts my faith and lifts my courage. It enables me to rejoice even in tribulation because of my faith which is expressed in the words of the song-writer when he said, "The toils of the road will seem nothing when we get to the end of the way."

DR. A. B. MACKEY, President

Thoughts On Spring

It has been said that spring is the time when a young man's fancy lightly turns towards thoughts of . . . what the young lady has been thinking of all year! Yes, spring is a time of love.

Spring is a time of beginning again. This is the true "new year." Old failures are behind, hopes for a brighter future are ahead. A new lilt is in the voice, a lift in the heart, a lighter footstep, and a love of life.

Spring is a time of new life and growth. Trees and flowers are budding and blooming into glorious colors. The sky is bluer, the grass is greener, the air is fresher, the sun is brighter. The squirrels frisk about and the birds sing.

"For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone, the flowers appear on the earth, the time of the singing of birds is come. . ." Let us tune our hearts to the song of nature and we can say with Wordsworth, the great nature poet: "Bliss it was in that dawn to be alive, but to be young was very heaven."

Dr. Strickland Is Chapel Speaker

"The only thing we have to offer a sin-cursed world is a Christ-controlled, Christ-filled life," advised Dr. Charles Strickland, district superintendent of the Nazarene churches for the Europeans in South Africa.

The visiting missionary, speaking in Trevecca College chapel on March 24, emphasized the great impact of Christian love on a world filled with hate. "What is the greatest impact I can make on the world today? What can I give a world as disturbed as ours?" were questions he answered by using a text from Paul in the II Corinthians letter.

"We can take our money, but many American tractors rust on the foreign fields while natives continue plowing with their oxen. We can take our talents, but they do not seem half as big out on the field as they do in the halls of college," he said. He pointed out that missionaries have to lose part of their own way of life to help those of foreign nations. More than anything else these people need the love of Christ.

Dr. Strickland reported that of the 230 million people in Africa, more than 15,000 are now Nazarenes, testifying to salvation through Jesus Christ. Having attended Trevecca some thirty years ago, the missionary seemed to have a special concern for students preparing for Christian service.

"Make Christ the center of life; the life that results will be the only contribution you can give the world," was his plea. He concluded, "The love of Christ keeps us in a willingness to serve."

McKay Hall Is Named For Missionary to India

Rev. and Mrs. John McKay had both been students at Trevecca Nazarene College. They were giving their lives in service to the Lord on the mission field in India.

While traveling across country in India, they had an automobile accident, and Mrs. May McKay and their five-year old son, Buddy, were both instantly killed not far from the main mission station at Buldana, India. This was on November 29, 1935, when they had been traveling to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with some friends.

May McKay had been deeply loved and appreciated by all those who knew her and especially by Trevecca College. Because of her deep devotion to her call to India and her sincere Christian life plus a love for Trevecca, a girls dormitory on the campus bears her name today.

John McKay later married May McKay's niece, Mary, and it is their daughter, Betty, whom we have on campus at the present time.

May McKay was the sister of Rev. William Tidwell, whose name is given to another building on campus—the boys dormitory. Their names will always have a place in the history of Trevecca Nazarene College.

A Good Talker Is A Good Listener

For everyone today there is a way to acquire success in conversing with friends. Some people have the idea that the amount one talks indicates his ability as a good conversationalist. No one cares to lend his ear to the dull or monotonous words of a "jabberer." The cultured person never forces himself on others.

A good test of the degree of intelligence one has is his ability to listen well. Rather than interrupt one who is speaking, the good conversationalist thoughtfully gives his attention to him. An old saying is "You learn more by listening."

The best conversationalist weighs his words and is careful in presenting them to his listeners. He is considerate of the feelings of others and does not intentionally say anything that would reflect their failures and weaknesses.

It is necessary that we know the basic techniques of being a good conversationalist. In almost every activity of the day we engage in conversation in the classroom, in the cafeteria, in friendly chats, and in letter writing. A few hints that will help you are:

1. Never monopolize conversation.
2. Refrain from being egotistical.
3. Choose your words carefully and use them fluently.
4. Avoid using distasteful words.
5. Consider the feelings and attitudes of others.
6. Use tact.
7. Be a good listener.

If you will remember these techniques of conversing and practice them, you will soon master the art of being a good conversationalist.

The Race of Life

By V. Gene Smith

The Nazarenes have a race that is longer, better, rougher, and harder, and pays much greater dividends than any earthly race. To start with, we have a car (religion) designed and built by God the Father.

In the "pit crew" we have such helpers as Sunday school, morning worship, evening evangelistic service, N.Y.P.S., N.F.M.S., and prayer meeting. All, if used to the fullest extent, can provide the utmost in spiritual help in our race.

Our Head Mechanic, Adviser, and always our help in time of trouble, is Jesus Christ. Our fuel is of the highest octane called Sanctification. Our tank will always be filled to overflowing if our prayer life is up to date.

The car we have entered into competition is called the "Holiness Special." It is equipped with nine cylinders (the Beatitudes) and super-charged with the Spirit's baptism.

With all these high qualities put into one machine, a driver, with the Love of God, can not help but win over the ways of the world.

When we get the checkered flag and pull into Glory Lane, we will be congratulated by God the Father and His Wonderful Son.

The trophy of everlasting Peace will be presented and the reward will be to reign forever and forever with God in Heaven.

C.W.A. Reports

Does Christian work really pay? Are people actually helped in the services conducted by the Christian Workers Association; or, are the students wasting their time each week end? These are questions that are asked by many. If these people could see and talk to just a few of the ones who have attended our services and hear their testimonials all doubt would be erased.

Martha Gray

A few days ago I answered the telephone and was surprised to hear the voice of an old gentleman who is in one of the services every Sunday. He left with me a radiant testimony for Jesus Christ, and words of appreciation for the students who are willing to spend a few minutes every Sunday afternoon visiting in a nursing home.

A Nazarene church in Colorado could send thanks to the C.W.A. for a faithful member who helped in the beginning of that church. Converted in the county jail, this woman went out to give the same message that had been given to her. Today she has a burning testimony and carries a burden for others who do not know her Savior.

During a visit to the state penitentiary, you could be introduced to one person who is using her time there for the glory of God. After having been saved in one of the jails, she was sent to the penitentiary. Her faith did not waver, however. She is now a source of strength for others. She counsels and prays with the other women, and at times has a ready greeting and testimony to the saving and keeping grace of God.

The street service would not be complete without the faithful attendance of one man who was converted at such a service some years ago. On Saturdays he makes his way to the square to meet the students as they come for the service.

Is it worth it? Certainly! These are only a few examples, and Jesus has said that one soul is worth the whole world. Surely we can say that Christian work pays.

Book Review

There have often been many questions raised in relation to the dress of a Christian. Perhaps you have had many such questions arise in your own mind.

Dr. Albert F. Harper, editor-in-chief of our Sunday school literature, has written a book entitled Christian Simplicity. In this book he answers many perplexing questions such as "Does God want us to be attractive?" "Do I dress modestly?" "Is a little bit all right?" and "Do I look like the world?" Dr. Harper is very honest and candid in his discussion of these questions and deals with them expertly.

This book is inexpensive, costing only twenty-five cents, and can be obtained at our own bookstore. It is a book that every Nazarene young person should read in regard to the dress question.

Campus Cacophony

By MARITA SLIFER and JOY NELL WARHURST

It was actually amusing to note the "strangers" in the library. The occasion? Exams . . . It seems that cramming is almost as vital as protoplasm for some students—like Buddy Gillian, Byron Dollar, Bob Rouse, Chloe Combs.

The All-School project seems to really be underway. Congratulations to those classes and clubs that have contributed to it.

We were privileged to have Rev. L. S. Oliver, district superintendent of Alabama, to bring four inspiring chapel messages last quarter.

Can you imagine what this campus would be like IF:

—Joe Moses were not pointing his finger?

—Mr. Richardson didn't want money?

—The bookkeeper's office couldn't have a party every other day?

—Joyce Woodard didn't answer the switchboard?

—Ed Allred didn't sneeze in class?

—Professor John Knight had a mass of black curly hair?

—Everett Higginbotham were not called "Rosebud?"

—Melvin Welch weren't in a hurry?

—Karen Cox didn't run the boys out of McKay at 10:10?

—Donna Hutchinson didn't fix hair for these coeds?

—Polly McBryant didn't get a light check every night?

Speaking of sneezes, have you ever heard Jo Ann Smith tune up in chapel or in the library? She sounds like a tenor choo-choo train!

Welcome back to the travel-worn choir members. We missed you.

Dr. Childers was recently feted by the Junior Class with a surprise birthday party. We, too, would like to wish him a happy birthday—belated, of course.

Nancy Leigh, unaware of the party for Dr. Childers, made a grand entrance exhibiting two trash cans.

They say that spring has its effects on people. Sharon Marlin can give you complete information on this—the effects of a spring wasp.

Miss Peery was seen recently on the Hardy fire escapes. Was she seeing if they're useable in case of fire or if they have already been used (not in case of fire)?

Susie Ward must like zoology, especially frogs—in her bed!

Thom Houseman recently received a $600 scholarship from a civic club in his hometown, Kissimmee, Florida. Congratulations!

Good Reading Helps Toward Good Living

It is conducive to Christian living to read good literature. Literature is a vital part of the well-educated person's life.

Almost anywhere one may go he will see some kind of literature. Our own Nazarene Publishing House provides various types of reading for many people.

The Come Ye Apart will be an asset to those who desire to start their day with morning devotions as all Christians should do. It provides Scripture and comments for each day of the year and is published quarterly.

The Conquest is the official magazine of the N.Y.P.S. It should be a "must" for every young person. The articles are those of interest to all ages.

The Herald of Holiness is published weekly and should be in the home of every Nazarene. It will keep one informed of the current events of the church, and it brings a word each week from the general superintendents.

The Other Sheep keeps one up-to-date with the Nazarene missionaries and their progress which is of importance to all.

Each Sunday several types of literature are prepared for the Sunday school. The Sunshine paper, Junior Joys, Youth's Comrade, and Standard are each provided for their respective age groups.

Why not take advantage of all this fine literature provided by the church?

A TNC Puzzle

"What would you do if you met a KHMATGAR?"

This question was asked of several Trevecca students, and some of their answers proved to be quite interesting. Here are a few of the answers received:

Gene Wiseman — I'd get some formaldehyde and keep it.

Hugh Smith—I'd just look at it. If I did anything else with it, it would probably bite me.

Judy Parrish—I'd jump up and run!

Jimmy Eades—I'd plant it by the fish pond.

Carol Cornelius—I would send it back to the jungle where I think it came from.

John Taylor—Take it to Prof. Chambers and see if he'd let me keep it!

Carol Young—I'd get a dictionary and check on it.

Jerry Chandler—Take an alkaseltzer and lie down for awhile!

Emory Garner—Give it a spanking!

Marita Slifer—Ask Larry what to do; he makes all of our big decisions!

Ed Stiles—I'd tie it across the back of my car.

Linda Kolar—I study for everything else; so I'd probably study for that too!

Bob Cook—I would throw it in the fish pond (and hope it could swim).

Sylvia Young—I would be scared!

Junior Lewis—Give it to Bill Beasley for his girl friend.

Claire Goodman—I'd write home to "Mom" about it!

Ed Allred—I'd sing to it and maybe it would go away!

Kay Wills—Send it to the moon!

Jim Staley—I'd have it "campused"!

Pam Thomas—I think I'd try to find out what I had!

Paul Crew—Put it in a cage and feed it!

Miriam Goodwin—I'd put it in a box and mail it to my penpal in the Congo!

Sissie Johnson — I'd probably "cage" it!

Jim Dyhouse—I'd throw it on a junkpile!

Ann Fleming—I'd feed it to my lop-eared house ape!

Peggy Carson—I'd bury it!

Curtiss Pearson—Donate it to the biology lab!

Two Betas Are Most Outstanding Players

Two Betas have been chosen as most outstanding during the middle rounds of play this basketball season. They are Pam Thomas and Don

Don Irwin

Pam Thomas

Irwin. Both of these deserving athletes star on the defensive.

Elkin, North Carolina, sends to us the young woman who is an outstanding guard for the Beta team this year. She is Pamela Thomas (Pam for short).

Pam, a freshman at Trevecca, played junior varsity basketball while in Elkin High School. Her training has evidently come in handy here, for she has practically won the Beta games with her defensive skill.

Pam is not sure of her major yet, but she is debating on science or education-psychology. Upon graduating she plans to teach or go into nurses training.

Pam enjoys sewing and all types of sports. Marquita Thomas, a junior at Trevecca, is her sister.

Don Irwin, a freshman, comes to Trevecca from Clearwater, Florida, where he was active in softball and basketball. He played five years of softball and four years of basketball.

Don is a good rebounder who has proved to be an asset to the Betas this season on defense. He protects the key like an old hen protects her chicks. He also dumps in field goals now and then.

Don is majoring in mathematics with a minor in psychology and education, and he plans to go into the secondary teaching field.

Irwin has hopes of snagging the second base position on the Beta softball team.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Martin Take Care of Campus

From fixing blown fuses to shoveling snow and repairing heaters, Mr. Hugh Martin and his favorite assistant, Mrs. Martin, keep Trevecca's campus in good condition.

Often seen buzzing about in their green convertible (jeep), "skating" with the buffer or washing barrels of cleaning rags for the school, these busy persons are virtually the "jacks-of-all trades" at T.N.C. They are accustomed to occasional extra hours of work to do special favors such as hanging mirrors or helping coeds fix trundle beds instead of bunks.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin, who have given sacrificially of their services for several years, are rarely seen without a ladder, mop, hammer, or similar tool in hand. From dawn to dusk, they are on the job in every nook and corner of the college. When anything bursts, breaks or gives trouble, the popular expression is "Where are the Martins?"

Little may be done to adequately express appreciation to such faithful workers and friends, but a sincere "thank you" always helps. Next time you see them on campus, why not tell them how much you appreciate their work which gives Trevecca's campus its clean, neat appearance?

Mr. Martin is a graduate of Trevecca College. He and his wife live on Paris Avenue a few blocks from the school. They have one daughter, Barbara Edmundson, who teaches school in Georgia, while her husband, Davey, is finishing his college work there.

Jeanette Beel—I'd give it a pacifier and put it in the refrigerator.

Mary Helen Lane—Put a leash on it and walk it every day!

Betty Harrison—I'd go to the doctor and see what could be done about it!

I'm sure everyone will join me in giving fifteen cheers for our spring vacation. Being a little optimistic, I believe that between the vacation and spring with its sunshine more fans will be coming to our sports events.

* * * * *

The basketball season is in its last stretch and the Betas still hold the lead. These fellows have set 1960-61 as their year and are well on the way to their second championship. Their record now stands with 5 victories and only one defeat.

The Alphas and Deltas are fighting for second place with 2 wins and 4 losses each. Even if the Betas lose the two games that they have remaining, they still will come out on top for the season. So it looks like the Alphas and Deltas are going to have to settle for either a second or third place, depending on which one can win their last two games.

* * * * *

It's good to see Jimmy Stocks participating in sports again. Jimmy was sidelined at the first of the basketball season with a broken collarbone.

Alphas have recruited a new man into their ranks. Gene Smith has certainly proved his worth in the games he has played for them.

It is often overlooked how well a player puts out on defense. This has happened to Don Irwin. Don has turned in a more than good defensive game for the Betas as well as dumping in quite a few points per game.

* * * * *

A hearty thanks to Wendell Poole, TAA president, for acquiring a gym in which to play the last ball game before spring vacation. Due to a conflicting program, the Salvation Army gym could not be used. Poole scouted around and was able to obtain the Shelby Park Community Center. It's wishful thinking, but it would be nice if the games could be played there regularly.

Betas Pull From Behind To Beat Alphas 58-54

The Betas put on a desperate drive and came from behind in the last minute of play to beat the Alphas 58-54 on March 11.

The Betas trailed by 1 point, 54-53, with less than a minute remaining to be played when Morton Estep broke loose on a fast break to lay in a crip and was fouled while shooting. Estep dropped in the charity toss to put the Betas out front by two points, 56-54.

The Alphas, trying for a tie ball game and possibly an overtime win, missed their last desperation shot. The Betas rebounded and Don Irwin was fouled. Irwin proceeded to put the game on ice, rimming both the free throws awarded him.

The Betas were never in the lead the entire first half and six minutes passed in the second before they could pull even with the Alphas. After the Betas tied the ball game up, the lead changed hands several times in the remaining minutes.

Gene Leviner pumped in 15 points to take top honors for both teams followed by Estep and Roger Costa who got 13 each.

LaVerne Deel paced the Alphas with 14 markers and Bob Cook was close behind with 12.

Beta	Alpha
Leviner 15	Deel 14
Costa 13	Smith 10
Irwin 11	Foxworthy 9
Estep 13	Cook 12
Houston 6	Poole 9

Donnie Adams—Give it to Joy (?)
Bubba Baggett—I'd put it in the hospital!

Sharon Bess—I'd put pickles on it!

Jeanie York—I'd tie it on the back of a car and let it drag!

Donna Hutchinson—I'd hang it from the fire escape!

And,

Miss Peery—I'd tame it !!!

Alphas Capture 65-56 Victory From Deltas

Playing as a team, the Alphas repeatedly fought off the Deltas to capture a sweet 65-56 victory on March 4. They jumped into a slim lead which they never gave up, even though the Delta quintet fought courageously to take the lead.

No one man could be singled out as putting forth the best efforts for the Alphas. Captain Wendell Poole led the Alpha offense with 21 points followed by Warren Foxworthy who got 19. Gene Smith, playing his first game for the Alphas, turned in a good performance with 13 markers.

Gene Frame was at the head of the Delta five with 17 and Byron Dollar and Tom Duncan had 12 each.

To see the Stars and Stripes waving in the morning breeze makes a good American's blood rise. The Freshman Class is sponsoring a flag-raising early every morning. The sight of Old Glory adds a colorful, patriotic touch to the campus. Caring for the banner is Jerry Appleby.

Slides were shown and information was given concerning the Salvation Army Community Center, Friday evening, March 24. The seniors presented this program.

"A Typical Day in the Life of a T.N.C. Student" was portrayed in music and pantomime by the Senior Class on March 11.

A senior choral group, accompanied by Miss Barbara McClain, class sponsor, sang musical numbers depicting the event in a day at Trevecca. Jim Staley as Joe College acted out the events, assisted by Darlene Cain. Ruth Shannon narrated the story.

"O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us

To see ourselfs as others see us!
It wad frae monie a blunder free us,

An' foolish notion.

What airs in dress an' gait wad lea'e us,

And ev'n devotion!"

TAA—Today And Yesterday

In the yearbook of 1937 a picture of the Athletic Club gives us an idea of what the sports-minded people looked like in the early years of Trevecca. There was a little bit of everything—tennis, golf, basketball, baseball, softball, etc.

Not until 1947 do we find anything else in our yearbooks about athletics. The title by which it was known in 1947 was the Men's Athletic Association. The association was divided into five groups, according to the classification of a student.

In 1952 we find athletics mentioned again under Men's Athletic Association, and this time, Girls Athletic Association. It remained thus until 1957 when the Girls Athletic Association and Men's Athletic Association merged as the Trevecca Athletic Association. This merger was under the leading of Bill Strickland, a student here at that time.

The student body voted to reorganize the entire athletic association. The purpose of the change was to equalize the competition which had been previously dominated by the upperclassmen. There were three societies formed—the Tau Alpha, Tau Beta, and Tau Delta. Since then, each year has proved to be a good and a more progressive year for the Trevecca Athletic Association.

Now, in the year 1960-61, the Trevecca Athletic Association has begun its move toward one of its most successful, if not the best, years that Trevecca has seen. With new equipment, a new office and a hard working council it should prove itself in the years to come. Give your best to supporting the Trevecca Athletic Association for a better athletic program.
